

Over 2,000 HLS systems have been sold, making it by far the most popular plant labelling software in the UK and Ireland, It's easy to see why.

Colour or black and white

HLS Pro is our entry level system for black and white label printing. If you want to print colour labels use our premium HLS Pro+ software.

Plant database

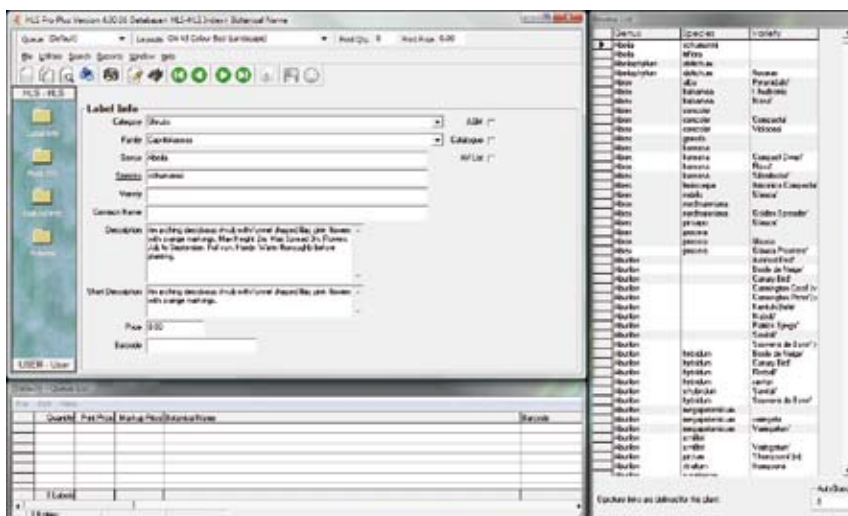

HLS can be bought with a database of over 10,000 plant names and descriptions which can all be edited. Or build up your own database with your personal data which can imported in if provided in CSV file format. HLS has an in-built spell checker which can even check Latin plant names.

Ease of use

HLS has been designed with simplicity in mind. The process of printing the labels is quick and easy and can be done by any staff regardless of any previous computer knowledge or experience.

We have put in features that assist the user as much as possible, such as highlighting any plants that have a picture in the review list, or displaying only those label layouts that you actually use to make finding your layouts easier. If one plant has a larger description than others the software will automatically reduce the size of the font to fit the field on the label rather than chopping off any text.

HLS will automatically reduce the resolution of large picture files to fit the size of picture on the label to speed up printing. If you are printing sheets of labels HLS will let you know if any label will be blank on the last sheet based on the quantity in the print queue to help avoid wastage. You can record whether a particular plant has an Award of Garden Merit or is in your catalogue or Availability List and print off basic reports.

HLS also has the ability to automatically print on both sides of certain label sizes (requires an OKI printer with a duplex unit).

Company-wide labelling

HLS isn't just for printing plant labels. You can set up additional databases and use HLS for labelling other non-plant goods such as furniture or pet products. Install HLS on a network so that different departments can have simultaneous access to a company-wide labelling system.
